As part of its bicentenary celebrations Edinburgh Chess Club, along with International Master Lorin D'Costa (from "She Plays To Win"), is planning to hold a chess weekend in support of women and girls in chess.

We're running a number of events at the club's premises over the weekend including: scheduled training sessions for both beginners and experts, 5-round female-only tournament(s) (15 mins each on the clock), simultaneous displays with Lorin and other chess experts. Attendance can be for one day or both days.

The event is being supported by Edinburgh Chess Academy, Chess Scotland and Lothians Junior Chess.

She Plays To Win (SPTW) is a UK Girls Chess Project to try and encourage more girls to participate and learn chess in a fun environment. SPTW is run by the current England International Women's Chess Coach Lorin D'Costa who has successfully been coaching girls' chess nationally and internationally for over 11 years.

Further details will be announced in due course on the club's web site (www.edinburghchessclub.co.uk).
